DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claim

Claim 1 is pending.

Specification

The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains.

Art Unit: 1626

Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Breikss (U.S. Patent number 5,523,453) ('453').

Applicants claim a process for hydrocyanation of at least one substrate selected from the group consisting of 2-, or 3- or 4-pentennitrile and 3-butenenitrile comprising: Contacting the substrate with hydrogen cyanide in the presence of a zero-valent nickel catalyst and a promoter selected from iron (II) chloride and manganese (II) chloride, which was obtained as a byproduct from the production of titanium tetrachloride from titanium ore.

Breikss discloses a hydrocyanation process, which comprises reacting 2-pentenenitrile with hydrogen cyanide in the presence of a zero-valent nickel catalyst and employs iron chloride or manganese chloride as a promoter in the process. See the entire reference especially column 1, lines 60 bridging column 2, lines 1-55, column 12, lines 26-29 for the various promoters.

Art Unit: 1626

Thus, the instant claim differ from '453' in the source of the promoter. The instant claim require the promoter (by-product) from the production of titanium tetrachloride, whereas '453' is silent on the source of the promoter.

However, this difference is not considered patentable distinction and is thus, prima facie obvious absent a showing of unexpected results and/or properties. There is no indication by way of evidence or otherwise in the specification that discloses the significance of the claimed source of the promoter.

Thus, the claimed source is an obvious modification available to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Therefore, at the time of filing this application, one of ordinary skill in the art would thus, have been motivated to prepare nitriles with the required reactants of Breikss with the expectation that the resulting product would maintain high yield and/or selectivity because the indicated promoters are preferred.

Accordingly, it would be prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to prepare nitriles as disclosed by the reference with the required promoters because each of the promoters is preferred and has been expected to operate with a reasonable expectation of success. Hence, the instantly claimed process would therefore have been suggested to one of ordinary skill in the art absent a showing of unexpected results.
